“ From the first day I saw you walk into Outback I knew we would be great friends. You always work so hard and you were always so soft spoken but no matter what or who you were, you would give him this shirt off of your back! That's just the person you are man! I've been searching and scouring the internet trying to make sure I could make it to your service unfortunately I spelled your name wrong and nobody told me anything. I wanted to give your family the love and respect that they deserve for creating such an amazing human being for us to have the honor of being friends with. You're absence I promise to keep all of our memories from work and all the smiles that I seen from your face. I'll never forget the last thing I said to you as a friend and as a brother to a sister I looked you in your face and said I love you man and as you cross your arms and lean back in the seat or that smile on your face you said I love you too! The day you died I got to tell you that I loved you, it was very early that morning however when I got the news I was devastated. I'm so glad I got to say those words to you and tell you how much I appreciated you as a friend for always being there and for always lending an ear when I just needed to vent. You were the brother that I never got a chance to have and for that I am gratefully blessed by God because of it. I will never forget you my friend. Please make sure to check in on us from time to time and let us know that you're nearby. And please Franz, please be with your family. I know they're really going to need you! Promise there will be Justice! I love you little brother! Thank you for everything 💔
