“ Christine was my sister, my father's first born child by his first wife. Though we didn't grow up together, my dad always kept her close to his heart. One day he pulled a picture from his wallet and showed it to me, it was Christine. I wanted to meet her but somehow our paths never crossed. Until she came to the Carlis Family Reunion in 2003, and we finally met. I was so excited to meet her after all those years. In 2006, my family moved to Tampa, I immediately looked her up. She would write me through the years and she asked me to come to her mom's funeral. So our journey of sisterhood began. I would come visit her in the nursing home and we would sit and chat. I never knew our years would be cut short. I thank God for those memories that we made and the bond we formed. Rest in peace, sis! I'll see you on the other shore again.
