Dr. Jones was employed as a teacher at Phyllis Wheatley High School, Apopka, Florida early on and then as a Professor of Biology at Talladega College, Talladega, Alabama. “ This is a very late post. However, I was unaware of this forum existence until now. Dr. Jones was my anatomy teacher. She was always filled with so much life and joy as she taught the lectures. Additionally, she was the one who pushed me to continue her class 2 semesters early because she enjoyed the engagement we had. Lastly, I could tell she was a woman of God because of her language and the conversations I shared with her. To this day, I still have fond memories of her personality and her class. She will be missed, but never forgotten. May she rest in peace.
