“ Son, I cannot believe that it has been five years since you have been gone and I still write on here pretty much every month. Somehow, somehow, being able to do this has helped me with my grief. I miss you so much son. More than anyone walking this earth will ever know. I miss that beautiful smile, and that kind, loving heart that you had. I lost you at age 35 at just age 16. I want you to know that those 16 years were the best 16 years God could have given me. Lord knows I wish you were still here. Yet five years later I still struggle with why you had to leave so soon. I love you always son. I will never forget you. You were my first son and taught me truly what a mother/son relationship really meant. I still hurt so bad..No one knows about all my secret cries, and this life long pain that I truly struggle with. You always have a designated spot in my heart, a place that no one can ever replace or fill. Instead I fill it with all my memories I have of and with you. Until we meet again, continue resting peacefully. I love you always son...Love Mama

“ Hey son..i am just sitting here at work and you just came to my mind. I miss you and that beautiful smile so much. I often think about how my life would be if you were still here. They say God gives the hardest tasks to his toughest soldiers..he must have definitely seen something in me that I do not even see in myself. To a lot of people..i am strong but truthfully I am broken, never to be the same Lamika again. Some days I do not know how I make it, because it is so hard living without you. You are forever my son, but also my Angel. I love and miss you Vonte. Please continue to watch over me. Please also watch over your sisters and brothers and protect them the way you did when you were still physically here. You are forever in my heart. Love Moma

I think that reality really hit me that we really all have to leave here some day. None of us no when that time will come, so I live my life very humble. “ Hey Javonte, I just woke up thinking about you. I got up went for a run & said it was gonna be a good day. It took me a while to understand why god took you. No one will never know. I can see us walking home from school talking about everything together. I had said a lot of stuff to hurt you & so have you, but I guess that was karma for me. No words can truly express how I feel. I go on everyday with this smile like everything is ok but deep down it bothers me yet everyone always have something to say about or whatever. At first when you past I was in deep thought. I literally almost lost my mind but I talked to god and asked him for guidance and to keep me strong for myself & the little ones. Things didn't go as I planned when you left me. I ended up moving to seattle and that just added more pain. I didn't care about anything else but you honestly. I feel like my world has fallen back together though. I was in a really dark place before you left. I'll never forget you talking to that angle before you left. I miss you so much. People was saying stuff to hurt me when you died like you didn't like me and you didn't want me around anymore. it really bothered me because we was like bestfriends. I was closer to you than anybody was. I don't think they understand that. im pouring in tears right now because it hurt so bad. I wont be able to see your face and talk to you about anything. I remember all the times we would run away to escape everything that ws going on. Those long talks and walks after school. You used to tell me how you was confused and how you just wanted to be happy. It was never in my intentions to hurt you. I was just going through a lot myself but you understood although we fell apart when I stop coming home. The reason for that is because I didn't feel wanted & I was hurt from rape and abuse. I didn't deserve anything and so didn't you nor kentrell. It bothers me because im still blamed for everything. I remember that day you seen me walking with a boy and you said what are you going with my sister. you knew what was happening and I stoped and thought to myself you still cared. I remember when I said was going to get my fake brother to fight because we had got into a big argument and you screamed I am your brother with anger. It didn't come to me that all you wanted was me to be your sister and bestfriend like we was before. I was so blinds and had my head in my ass that I forgot about the only person that understood me. I was to busy being grown that I lost my brother. Ill never forget the day you died I tried to rub your leg for you but you was upset and said you wanted my momma. You knew you were gonna die and I hate I went to sleep that day. For some reason I said I love you and I that was the last ily I got back. I wish io would've stayed with you all day. When it happened I performed cpr on you because everyone was scared. Everyone had to leave the house but I stayed in and watch them do cpr with the static on you. I didn't say much until we got there with my head held low because I had a feeling in my gut. A vision came to me and I didn't want to believe it. The preacher lady told me I was gonna loose somebody close to me and god was gonna restore my life but I never knew it was you. She said great things would happen but it kinda feel the same to me. I still feel unwanted and im not happy. All I ever wanted was a peace of mind. always the typr to be kind and let people take advantage of me knowing they are. I try to remember all the good memories but it always hurt the most because I know I wont get to do any of that while im here on earth. I promise you well meet again. We were destined for eachother. I love you vonte R.I.P :(

Lord knows...I wish God did not have to take him either, but I trust God and know that he makes no mistakes, although I hurt so bad and a piece of my heart is missing. I just really wish that Vonte was still here to laugh and smile with us..My heart will forever be broken and my life will never be the same. He was such a loving, humble, and respectful young man and he is truly missed. All I can say is God knows best and Lord please continue to comfort me and those that were affected by his untimely, unexpected death. Lord please continue to strengthen me so that I can continue to endure all of this pain...

I pray and ask God for strength and comfort and he does comfort me, but sometimes the grief consumes me. I wish you were here still. I just wish I could here you laugh, see your smile, have a hug from you or a i love you mom, just the way you would say it since you were a little boy. “ I haven't been on here in a few weeks, but you can believe that I have thought of you each and every day. Not a day goes by where I don't think of you. I miss you so much. There are no words that can ever describe the pain that I feel. I have not been the same since you left this earth. My mind is not the same. I am doing my best to accept this new "normal". I am having such a hard time. I wish you did not have to leave me soo soon baby. Moma will always love you and you will always have that same spot in my heart, that you have had since you were in my stomach. How do you say goodbye to your child? You can't! So I will say, see you in heaven when I get there. I love you son! I miss you and long for you with every beat of my heart. Some people will never understand my pain or my journey, but I will just continue to pray. Until we meet again, watch over us and continue to rest in the presence of the Lord. MO

Life hasn't been the same since you have been gone. Not a day goes by where I don't think of you. This is such a tough journey for me. I trust God and know that you are in a better place. I love you and miss you so. You will forever live in my heart until we meet again-Love Moma
