“ *Jervis,
My best friend, my father figure whom I'd talk to, laugh hard with and cry with. We'd talk hours and with many conversations I already knew the answers, but you had a way of confirming so there was no second guessing. I had so much to tell you when I got back from my Michigan trip but then I realized I won't get a chance. We'd talk about this not believing it would happen so quick. I miss you and will always love you.*

*Your best friend forever,
Chico (Rhoda Spinks)*

“ *I met Jervis back in October of '98 when he was hired at Coca-Cola.
I loved his personality. He spoke his mind for sure. He didn't hold back. That was one of the things that I loved about him. You never had to guess what he was really thinking, and he was without a doubt, the hardest working man I've ever met. You will truly be missed Jervis...*

“ I worked with Jervis years ago (~20). I used to supervise him on second shift. Never did I know a harder worker than Jervis. If I had extra shifts, he would always take it. He lived simply, eating only a bologna sandwich with nothing on it. He used to put up fence after a 16 hour shift - which was unbelievable to me. I also had many heart to hearts with him about his service for our country. I was thinking of him two days ago and some of his stories - laughing to myself. There will never be another like Jervis.
