ALICIA ARMSTRONG - November 16, 2015 at 08:26 AM

There is SUNSHINE after the STORM, there is a sacredness in tears, they are not the mark of weakness, but of POWER, they speak more eloquently than ten thousand tongues, they are messengers of overwhelming grief, of deep contrition, and unspeakable love

There is SUNSHINE after the STORM...

I did not have the pleasure of meeting this beautiful young lady, but knowing her mother and father I know she was a respectful loving young lady, my prayers are with the family.

“ Oh LaStacia, you were KeMira's first real friend. I remember you two running back and forth from your house to mine's playing as kids. You were the sweetest most respectful child I have ever come across. Even when I ran into you a few months ago you were still that same sweet little girl that had grown to be a beautiful young woman with that same sweet essence you displayed as a little girl. Sweetie I am sure you will be missed. I miss you already. Love you forever,
Yarbough

“ Oh, LaStacia how this hurts. You were KeMira's first true friend. You guys were so innocent so care free, not a worry in the world. Back and forth you two ran from house to house. I remember it like it was yesterday. When I tell you nothing but sugar you were the sweetest most respectful little girl I had ever come across. When I saw you a few months ago there you were that same little girl all grown up. Just as I knew you would be all sweet and respectful still. You will be missed sweetie I'm sure of it. I miss you already. We love you under this roof and you will never be forgotten. We love you Bev, Yarbough and KeMira❤️
