

Maria Soledad Andujar

May 20, 1954 - January 23, 2024

Maria Soledad Benites Elescano was born in the port city of Callao, Peru. she was the daughter of Miro Beneites and Lucelinda Elescano, and was the eldest of seven siblings, of which there were two sets of twins (males and females). Soledad's Husband, Luis Andujar passed away in 2009. She is the mother of Abigail, her one and only child.

In her lifetime, she obtained several College and University degrees; as well as worked in several professions. Firstly, she obtained a Doctorate in Medical Surgery and Gynecology from the National University of Cordoba, Argentina. There she practiced for several years as an Obstetrician, welcoming and delivering new babies into the world, often being the first friendly face they had ever seen.

Soledad decided to migrate to the United States of America from Argentina to pursue better opportunities and lived in Florida. There she worked in Nursing and hospice care for over a decade. She obtained a Master's Degree in Human Resources and most recently a Real Estate License, where her focus was on dealing with foreign investors. She became an author, writing her own Autobiography, "Viaje Con Soledad", which translates to "Journey with Soledad".

She was curious of life and never stood still. She loved to learn, new experiences, dancing, music, laughing and traveling. Her favorite place was the beach right by Ocean. She enjoyed reading, listening to stories and narrations, and words of wisdom. She was a life-long student. Her favorite saying was "those that listen to wisdom, reach old age".

She had powerful will and indomitable spirit. She was proud to say that when she put her mind towards a goal, she always worked hard and achieved it.

She was always grateful; above all to God, who always was present in her life. Secondly, to all those that shared their love, support, and company with her. She valued her friends; those that stood by her side in both triumph and defeat, pain and joy.
