“ When the lights went out, that means it was time to go to bed. We were kids. 7 and 8 Me and junior use to play sleep, but really we were up thinking outside the box. We used to wonder what the world was gonna be like, before it came to an end. We always heard grandma Mary saying she didn't wanna be in this world, when all those unknown creatures and everything appear. He said "we don't have to worry, we know God. And he got us. he got grandma too. All we gotta do is pray" . . . to his very last day, he was prayed up. . . . God fearing..... I know he's in a better place. I know he's watching over me.

“ We had too many memories just to pick one. This was my cousin, more like my brother. Grandma Mary raised us together. I remember me and junior used to come home from school, KNOW we not suppose to be fighting each other, but like I said. He was like a brother and that's all we did was fight. While grandma Mary was whooping him, I was jumping out windows running from the whoopings. All the kids on the block would stand in front of our house and laugh because this was literally a routine for us. We did everything together, told each other everything. I cried when they moved to Alabama because I was the only child. Well, I have a sister but when we were little , we got seperated. So, jasmine, junior, and Erika was all I knew. Erika gone, and now junior is too. I'll always cherish every single minute I spent with them. My family, I love them 😭
