

Terence Maurice McClain "TRILL"

December 21, 1977 - July 20, 2024

Terence McClain, better known by his stage names, "Muscle Man Crazy T", passed away unexpectedly leaving behind a legacy of love, music, and community spirit. Born to Linda Washington and the late Edward McClain, Terence grew up in a tight-knit family with his two brothers, Donnell and Greg McClain (the "McClain Boys").

From a young age, Terence was a fun-loving and energetic soul who always dreamed of being more than just an ordinary teen. While he enjoyed playing sports, his true passion lay in music. Inspired by artists like Lil Webbie, T.I., Rick Ross, and the Cash Money Records family, Terence pursued a career in rap, using his music to speak truthfully about the struggles and hopes of the Black community.

Terence's music was more than just entertainment- it was a powerful reflection of urban life and the pain felt by young men growing up in challenging environments. His debut album, "Heaven or Hell." featured heartfelt tracks like "Streets of the Ghetto," "Ima Child of God," "Make it Rain" and "I'm the Muscle Man." Through his lyrics, he articulated the dreams and realities of many, inspiring hope and resilience.

Determined to uplift this community, Terence founded Crazy Head Records and the Trill Keeping it Trill movement, providing a platform for aspiring rappers to share their voices. His vision and leadership brought opportunities to many, and his influence extended far beyond the music industry. He was a beloved figure in the Florida music scene, known for his electrifying performance and respected for his integrity and generosity.

Terence's commitment to his community was unwavering. Whether organization food drive's supporting local businesses, or a helping hand to those in need, he always found ways to bring people together and provide for the less fortunate. His deep faith and the belief that he was a man of God guided his actions, and he often shared his spirituality with others, blending reality with a divine vision.

As a father, husband, and son, Terence was deeply devoted to his family. He was a provider in every sense of the word, ensuring his loved ones were cared for, no matter the circumstances. His determination, strength, and compassion earned him the affectionate title of "Muscle Man" a testament to his character and dedication.

Terence McClain leaves behind a powerful legacy of music, love, and community service. His energy, kindness, and vision touched the lives of many, and his memory will continue to inspire those who knew him. While we mourn his life, we celebrate the extraordinary life of a man who truly made a difference.

Rest in Peace, Terence McClain. Your spirit and music will live on forever in our hearts.

Terence leaves to cherish precious memories: a loving wife, Patrice Jones McClain; two sons; Terence McClain Jr. and Trillveyon McClain; three daughters; Tia McClain, Tyasha Scott, and Shedreona Payne; a granddaughter, Talayah McClain; his mother, Linda McClain of Orlando, FL; two brothers: Edward McClain (Tammy) and Donnell McClain; two nephews; Greg McClain and Jarquavion McClain; two aunts: Lillie Washington McLeod of Orlando, FL and Ruby Mobley (Johnny) of Opa Locka, FL; a special cousin Belinda Washington Davis; and a host of cousin and numerous sorrowing friends.
