

Victor Aurelio Roscetti

June 20, 1963 - October 27, 2019

Victor Aurelio Roscetti, affectionately known as "Vic," was born on June 20, 1963 in Woodbury, New Jersey, to parents Victor Francis Roscetti and Janet Carpenter Roscetti. He graduated from Paulsboro High School in Paulsboro, New Jersey in 1981.

Victor worked various positions ranging from the record business, bookstores to hobby shops. In 2006, he moved to Florida from New Jersey. Victor loved working on his audio productions with 4077 Productions, All Better Audio and various authors. He had an online radio show for many years called, "Whispers in the Dark."

Victor married Jared brown on January 15, 2015 and lived in Orlando, Florida. He enjoyed game nights at home, building LEGO models, weekend get-a-ways, chatting with friends for hours...especially Verity LaCroix, watching sci-fi movies, Dr. Who, and Star Wars and many more pleasures.

Victor will be deeply missed. His life didn't end, it only changed. We know that he will forever be with us as long as we remember the good times, all the laughs, talks and all of the memories we've made with him throughout the years.

We love you Vic and we will NEVER forget you.

Victor was preceded in death by his mother, Janet Carpenter Roscetti and good friend, Andy Ross.

He leaves countless memories and priceless moments to his: husband, Jared Brown of Orlando, Florida; father, Victor F. Roscetti of New Jersey; brother, Danny Roscetti of New Jersey; father-in-law, Lamar Jones; mother-in-law, Caren Brown Jones; special friends; Jeff Niles, Verity LaCroix, David Cramer and a host of aunts, uncles, nieces, cousins and other loving relative and friends who will miss him deeply.

“ It's still hard to accept that Vic is gone. When I joined the Air Force and moved to Illinois we wrote a story together through letters (yes, snail mail). He would write a few pages and then I would write back and continue the story. It was strange and so much fun (just like Vic). I still have those letters.

“ I knew Vic when he moved down to Florida, and have seen him fairly often while he was down here. My heart goes out to Jared and his family. Vic had a big heart, and at times almost cared too much. It was hard seeing him in a lot of pain the last few weeks. Rest in peace my friend.

“ Vic was my dearest, closest friend from the time we were 7-8 years old... We were different in many ways, yet we shared so many common interests. We put so many different projects together over the years, he more focused on writing, me more focused on music. We also saw each other through the good times and bad for many years. When he left New Jersey in 2005, I think we both knew that we'd never see one another face-to-face again, but our love for one another as friends - more like brothers - always endured. There is now a hole in my heart that can never be filled, as my "brother" has now departed this life.

I love you now and forever, Vic may God bless you and grant you eternal peace.

“ My condolences to all who knew this wonderful man. Victor was the most kindest, sweetest man I have ever known and was always generous with his time. We would talk for hours at a time on skype and I will treasure those memories forever. I can not believe he is gone and I will never get to talk or write with him again. He will live on through his audio works and when I listen to them in the future I will try not to be sad but try to hold on to all the happiness he brought me and so many others. I miss you so mush my dear friend, rest in peace.
